Congratulations

Congratulations on your re-election and re-appointment to the Albanese Ministry.

The National Indigenous Australians Agency and I are pleased to continue working with you to deliver the Government's agenda to build a better future for First Nations people.

On a personal level, I am deeply committed to working in partnership with First Nations people to bring about sustainable and impactful outcomes. I am looking forward to continuing to work with you over the coming term to bring this vision to life and achieve tangible progress towards Closing the Gap.

Our focus is on ensuring your priorities are delivered on time, on budget and in a culturally safe manner that meets the needs of First Nations people. This briefing pack outlines the current operations of the Agency to help you plan the term ahead. This includes how we will continue to support you with your Cabinet responsibilities, the legislation you administer, and the Indigenous portfolio bodies. It marks the first of many opportunities for my team to provide briefing on how we can best support you in your second term.

The staff here at the NIAA are ready and eager to continue working with you to achieve your commitments to supporting the empowerment of First Nations people. One of our greatest strengths remains that a quarter of our staff identify as First Nations, including 36 per cent of our senior executive body.

With over half our staff working outside of Canberra, our regional and remote teams are excited to continue supporting you on the ground, engaging with and in community. Their presence enables our Agency to hear directly from the First Nations communities we serve.

The NIAA welcomes you back to the portfolio and stands ready to help you achieve your second term agenda as the Minister for Indigenous Australians.

Our connections to community and the commitment of our staff give our Agency the strength and understanding to deliver real and meaningful outcomes in place. We look forward to drawing on this experience to support you in maximising progress toward Closing the Gap over the coming term.

Yours sincerely,

Jody Broun
Chief Executive Officer

Resuming your Ministry

Supporting your Office

Should there be any staffing changes inside your Office, we have a list of experienced policy, communications and parliamentary officers that can act as interim advisers while your permanent staff roster is finalised. The NIAA will cover the costs for up to 12 weeks. We will also continue to sponsor two Departmental Liaison Officers to facilitate communications and workflow between your Office and the Agency.

We will continue to work with your Office Manager and Chief of Staff to ensure you are adequately supported in your physical office locations.

Charter Letter

Within the next month, we expect the Prime Minister to issue you with your Charter Letter that will outline a set of Ministerial priorities and objectives for this term of government. We will work with you to ensure every one of these priorities and objectives is met or exceeded. We will also draft a response for you.

Travel arrangements

In the coming weeks, the Prime Minister or his Chief of Staff is expected to write to Ministers reconfirming the process for providing approvals to travel overseas. s47C, s47E(d)

Cabinet responsibilities

The rules and expectations governing the operation of the Cabinet and its committees are endorsed by the Cabinet at the start of each term of government. Once endorsed, the rules and expectations are set out in a new edition of the Cabinet Handbook.

The most recent Cabinet Handbook (15th edition) and the Budget Process Operational Rules (BPORs) include a requirement for all proposals bound for the Cabinet and its committees to genuinely consider the impact they will have on First Nations people. It is recommended but not mandatory to consult the NIAA and First Nations stakeholders during development.

The Cabinet Secretary

With delegation from the Prime Minister, the Cabinet Secretary is responsible for finalising Cabinet and committee agendas and controlling the release of Cabinet documents. Once you have approved a Cabinet document for consideration, the Cabinet Secretary, supported by the Department of Prime Minister and Cabinet, vets documents before they are provided to Cabinet Ministers. The Cabinet Secretary is also responsible for finalising and releasing Cabinet and committee minutes and for agreeing to the presence of officials and co-opted Ministers (and their staff) in Cabinet and committee meetings.

Support for your attendance at Cabinet and Committee meetings

The NIAA will continue to provide you with a handling brief for each Cabinet and committee meeting you attend. We can also continue to provide verbal briefings on Cabinet items and their impact on First Nations people if you wish. Your Departmental Liaison Officers will prepare documents ahead of any Cabinet and committee meeting you attend.

s47C, s47E(d)

Indigenous Affairs Ministers Meeting

The Indigenous Affairs Ministers Meeting (IAMM) remains the key ministerial forum focused on supporting collaborative relationships between the Commonwealth, states and territories, on Indigenous affairs.

s47C, s47E(d)

For confirmation, current state and territory representatives in the IAMM are as follows:

- The Hon David Harris MP, Minister for Aboriginal Affairs and Treaty (NSW)
- Ms Suzanne Orr MLA, Minister for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Affairs (ACT)
- The Hon Kyam Maher MLC, Minister for Aboriginal Affairs (SA)
- The Hon Steven Edgington MLA, Minister for Aboriginal Affairs (NT)
- The Hon Fiona Simpson MP, Minister for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Partnerships (Qld)
- The Hon Jacque Petrusma BCom RN, Minister for Aboriginal Affairs (Tas)
- The Hon Natalie Hutchins MP, Minister for Treaty and First Peoples (Vic)
- The Hon Don Punch MLA, Minister for Aboriginal Affairs (WA).

Your key stakeholders

The NIAA has a stakeholder list with key external stakeholders and contact information that we can provide you separately.

NIAA: a quick overview

Our responsibilities

Our responsibilities are defined by our establishing Executive Order signed by the Governor-General on 29 May 2019.

The Executive Order gives the NIAA several functions, including to:

- lead and coordinate Commonwealth policy development, program design and implementation and service delivery for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples
- provide advice to the Prime Minister and the Minister for Indigenous Australians on whole-of-government priorities for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples
- lead and coordinate the development and implementation of Australia's Closing the Gap targets in partnership with First Nations people
- lead Commonwealth activities to promote reconciliation.

To deliver on these functions, the NIAA works with a diverse range of stakeholders. We coordinate and influence across government to ensure policies and programs are fit for purpose, impactful and aligned with community aspirations.

We are constantly working to enhance our efficiency and effectiveness to deliver on our functions and achieve tangible progress toward Closing the Gap.

Our vision and purpose

Our vision and purpose as an agency are defined in our 2024-25 corporate plan:

Our vision: Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people are heard, recognised and empowered.

Our purpose: The NIAA works in genuine partnership to enable the self-determination and aspirations of First Nations communities. We lead and influence change across government to ensure Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples have a say in the decisions that affect them.

Our workforce¹

Key facts

- 1,387 Full Time Equivalent (FTE) staff.
- 24 per cent of the NIAA's staff, and 36 per cent of our senior executive, identify as First Nations.
- 53 per cent of staff work outside Canberra, up from 41 per cent in 2019-20.
- 71 per cent of our staff are female and 29 per cent of our staff are male.

¹ All data within this section is current as of 28 April 2025. Please note all SES figures represent internal HR data and include SES staff on short-term acting arrangements and those on long-term leave.

The NIAA's Statutory Office Holders

- The Office of the Registrar of Indigenous Corporations (ORIC) has 44 FTE staff.
- The Office of Town Leasing (OTL) has 15 FTE staff.
- These staff are reflected within the NIAA's overall workforce data, including within the NIAA Annual Report.

A place-based approach to driving change

The NIAA is physically located in more locations than most Commonwealth agencies and works on the entire lifecycle of Indigenous policy. We are well positioned to collaborate in place with First Nations communities, Aboriginal Community Controlled Organisations, providers, non-government organisations (NGOs) and government partners at the federal, state and local levels.

We are committed to increasing the proportion of our workforce who are based in the regional and remote areas that we serve. Between 2019-20 to 2024-25, the proportion of our staff based outside of Canberra increased from 41 per cent to 53 per cent.

Our deep connections to regional and remote communities provide invaluable access to local intelligence and on-the-ground knowledge in community and are a unique asset for a Commonwealth agency. Our extensive regional footprint positions us well to work across government and facilitate community engagement on policies and programs, including playing a coordination role, identifying early warning signs and taking immediate action in responding to emergencies and local disasters.

We are also committed to increased efficiency and productivity. Between 2019-20 and 2024-25, the amount of expenditure we administered under the Indigenous Advancement Strategy (IAS) has increased by 62 per cent (from approximately $1.269 billion to just over $2.051 billion). Over the same period, the size of our workforce has grown only 20 per cent, from 1,155 full-time equivalent (FTE) to 1,387 FTE.

Our staff can continue supporting you on ministerial visits relating to portfolio matters.

Indigenous Advancement Strategy overview

The current Indigenous Advancement Strategy (IAS) structure comprises 6 program streams:

- Program 1.1 Jobs, Land and the Economy
- Program 1.2 Children and Schooling
- Program 1.3 Safety and Wellbeing
- Program 1.4 Culture and Capability
- Program 1.5 Remote Australia Strategies
- Program 1.6 Research and Evaluation (added in 2017).

s47C, s47E(d)

Most existing funding commitments to the IAS fall within three broad categories:

- Legally Committed: Funding that has been committed under a legal contract, such as a grant activity or service procurement. This also includes funding reserved for demand-driven activities. Planned investments are legally committed when the Commonwealth signs a contract with the funding recipient.
- Delegate Approved: Expenditure or allocations that have been agreed upon by the NIAA delegates but are yet to have an executed agreement.
- Planned Investments: This includes government decisions or election commitments, New Policy Proposals, approved planned programs and activities progressing through planning, consultation and negotiations. The NIAA also utilises planned investments as a planning tool to form a consolidated picture of future commitments, investment, and to identify future underspend or overspend. The Minister can reassign planned investments within the existing IAS appropriation by discontinuing funding for specific grant activities upon reaching their completion date. The Minister may also initiate a review of existing budget measures to redirect funding toward emerging priorities.

IAS Position

In the 2025-26 Budget, the Government allocated approximately $8.2 billion over the forward estimates for grants and procurement activities that address the objectives of the IAS.

As of 28 April 2025:

- $1.7 billion (21 per cent) of IAS funds are legally committed or reserved for demand-driven activities across the forward estimates.
- $361.3million (4 per cent) which has been approved by either the previous Minister, or a delegate of the NIAA, but is yet to be legally committed.
- $6.1 billion (75 per cent) is for planned investments in Budget Measures, critical and essential services, targeted investments in place, ongoing community services or statutory requirements.

Indigenous portfolio bodies

The Indigenous portfolio bodies are part of the Prime Minister and Cabinet Portfolio. One of the NIAA's key functions under our establishing Executive Order is to coordinate Indigenous portfolio bodies and advance a whole-of-government approach to improving the lives of Indigenous Australians. As the portfolio bodies are legally separate from the Commonwealth, the Minister is not responsible for them in the same way as the NIAA. CEO appointments are generally the responsibility of the relevant board (accountable authority). The Minister does not have the legal power to change a previous CEO or board appointment. Refer to the attached Governance Overview for an outline of each portfolio body and the Minister's key roles.

Ministerial appointments to portfolio bodies

The following ministerial appointments are required under legislation and/or company constitutions.

State and territory summaries

Jurisdictional overview

This section provides a short summary on how each jurisdiction approaches policies and programs for First Nations peoples. It also details how the NIAA is working with our state and territory colleagues to deliver meaningful and practical outcomes in First Nations communities, aligned to the Closing the Gap (CtG) Priority Reforms, particularly in regional and remote regions. s47C, s47E(d)

s47C, s47E(d)

The NIAA convenes a Commonwealth Heads of Agency (CHOA) forum for each jurisdiction except the Northern Territory (NT). Each CHOA brings together senior executives from across the Commonwealth to enact practical and collaborative whole-of-government action that supports First Nations people and communities in each jurisdiction.

The NIAA regional network plays a pivotal role in undertaking consultation in regional, remote and very remote communities. The NIAA regional network also works closely with the National Emergency Management Agency and all state and territory and local governments to provide support to First Nations communities during natural disasters.

Australian Capital Territory

Minister: The Hon Suzanne Orr MLA, Minister for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Affairs

State of play

The Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Elected Body (ATSIEB) represents First Nations people living in the Australian Capital Territory (ACT) and monitors the work of the ACT Government to deliver outcomes aligned with the National Agreement on Closing the Gap (the National Agreement). The ACT Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Agreement (2019-2028) is the commitment of the ACT Government, the ATSIEB and non-government organisations that enable First Nations peoples to exercise self-determination, to have the ability and resources to provide their own solutions and set the long-term strategic direction in First Nations affairs in the ACT.

Jervis Bay Territory

ACT law is applicable in the Jervis Bay Territory (JBT) as it forms part of the ACT. The NIAA works closely with Wreck Bay Aboriginal Community Council (WBACC) and is a conduit to other Commonwealth agencies with interest and obligations in the JBT.

The NIAA's focus

Indigenous Advancement Strategy (IAS) investment in 2024-25 in the ACT will total $55.4 million. In 2025, the NIAA's priorities for working with the ACT government include:

- a focus on influence and investment on school attainment levels and incarceration levels, as a key priority for the ACT government
- supporting discussions about housing and progression towards the establishment of an Aboriginal Housing provider, per ACT election commitments
- supporting WBACC to deliver the $45 million Sustainable Housing Project to 2031. The NIAA has established and convened the Sustainable Housing Project Executive Steering Committee and the Development and Implementation Working Group to work in partnership with WBACC
- supporting WBACC in addressing concerns such as polyfluoroalkyl substances, aging infrastructure, water quality, land claims and cross border issues such as provision of health services, education and justice reinvestment.

Key governance arrangements

First Nations peoples have a strong voice in ACT Government decision-making through elected representative committees and groups:

- ATSIEB listens to First Nations peoples and represents their ideas and concerns to the ACT Government.
- The United Ngunnawal Elders Council gives advice to ATSIEB.

The WBACC was established by the Aboriginal Land Grant (Jervis Bay Territory) Act 1986 and has limited law-making power in respect of issues concerning the administration of Wreck Bay and its community.

Cross-border considerations

The ACT/JBT shares its borders with New South Wales (NSW). The ACT Government has consistently pressed the Commonwealth to remove the residual role that ACT agencies have in the JBT for provision of services. While some NSW agencies provide services in the JBT, the NSW Government has declined to undertake a role until NSW laws, rather than ACT laws, are applied. Communities in the wider Jervis Bay area access NSW Government services and communities in the ACT region access ACT Government services. Access to health and educational services has been identified as a challenge for First Nations peoples in border communities.

New South Wales

Minister: The Hon David Harris MLA, Minister for Aboriginal Affairs and Treaty

State of play

The NSW Government has appointed three independent Treaty Commissioners to lead a 12-month co-designed approach to consultations with First Nations people and communities about Treaty. Consultations are due to commence during 2025.

The NSW Government is currently considering the NSW Ombudsman's report on Opportunity, Choice, Healing, Responsibility and Empowerment (OCHRE). OCHRE is the NSW Government's community-led plan to strengthen the relationship between government and community. The report was released in January 2025.

The NIAA works closely with Aboriginal Affairs NSW (AANSW) in the Premier's Department. AANSW focusses on legislative reform, healing and family history, economic opportunities and cultural heritage and identity and delivers a grants program.

The NIAA's focus

IAS investment in 2024-25 in NSW will total $243 million. In 2025, the NIAA's priorities include:

- partnering with First Nations people in NSW through existing and emerging partnerships including:
 - the Tamworth National Place Based Project (a Closing the Gap (CtG) place-based site), with the Tamworth Coalition of Community Controlled Organisations
 - the Barang Regional Alliance – Central Coast Empowered Community (EC) and the Inner Sydney EC. Opportunities exist to widen exposure of the model and increase involvement more broadly across other Commonwealth agencies
 - Local Decision Making Accords currently in place between the NSW Government and Aboriginal communities.
- supporting the implementation of the Western Sydney Data Project in Blacktown
- linking the recent changes to the NSW Bail Act 2013, which restricts bail for those between the ages of 14 and 18, with successful programs such as the Junior Rangers, justice reinvestment, early intervention and rehabilitation initiatives
- food security, as recent floods and power outages have highlighted the vulnerability of supply to First Nations communities in Western NSW.

Key governance arrangements

The NSW Government is implementing CtG in partnership with the NSW Coalition of Aboriginal Peak Organisations. In addition to the CtG Priority Reforms, the NSW Government has also developed a fifth priority reform on employment, business growth and economic prosperity.

Cross-border considerations

The NSW Cross-Border Commissioner, Kalina Koloff, advocates for cross-border communities, businesses and organisations where neighbouring jurisdictions have different approaches to policy and service delivery.

Northern Territory

Minister: The Hon Steve Edgington MLA, Minister for Aboriginal Affairs

State of play

The short-term fiscal and economic outlook in the NT is improving, however significant structural weaknesses remain. Addressing these requires ongoing Commonwealth fiscal support along with stronger transparency and accountability mechanisms.

The NIAA's focus

IAS investment in 2024-25 in the NT will total $634.9 million. In 2025, the NIAA's priorities include:

- targeting economic development and improving remote employment outcomes through a revised approach to the Community Development Program and Land and Sea Ranger programs
- progressing place-based policy approaches like the new NT Remote Aboriginal Investment (NTRAI) package, A Better, Safer Future for Central Australia and the Barkly Regional Deal
- addressing food security and cost of living pressure by implementing the National Strategy for Food Security in Remote Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Communities
- supporting the $4 billion NT remote housing package, which aims to halve overcrowding and improve house quality in remote communities
- working closely with the NT Government to better align policy and investment to improve on the ground outcomes, particularly for regional and remote First Nations communities.

Key governance arrangements

s47C, s47E(d)

Cross-border considerations

Ngaanyatjarra Pitjantjatjara Yankunytjatjara (NPY) Women's Council is the backbone organisation for the Tristate EC, across South Australia (SA), Western Australia (WA) and the NT. Work is underway to transition this backbone arrangement to the Kulintja Kutju Group.

Queensland

Minister: The Hon Fiona Simpson MP, Minister for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Partnerships

State of play

The Queensland Government repealed the Path to Treaty Act 2023 in late 2024. Funding totalling $108 million was redirected to the CtG Priorities Fund to support housing, education, employment and health initiatives in remote and discrete communities. The Queensland Budget is expected on 24 June 2025 and could clarify Commonwealth alignment with CtG commitments across Queensland.

The NIAA works closely with the Queensland Department of Women, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Partnerships and Multiculturalism on jobs and employment, supporting the community-controlled sector and responding to First Nations communities needs and aspirations through place-based work.

The NIAA's focus

IAS investment in 2024-25 in Queensland will total $374.7 million. In 2025, the NIAA's priorities include:

- existing and emerging Partnership Agreements, including the EC Local Partnership Agreement with Cape York Partnership and the Doomadgee Place Based Partnership Agreement
- working with the Queensland Government to consider how complementary IAS investment can support families as a diversionary measure for children involved in crime, noting Queensland's Making Queensland Safer policies
- supporting the Families Responsibilities Commission (FRC) to consider how child protection measures can provide whole-of-family support to reduce initial contact with the justice system
- ensuring First Nations people are appropriately included in the planning of the 2032 Olympic and Paralympic Games to showcase cultural heritage to the world by working with related partners in the planning and delivery of the Brisbane 2032 Games.

Key governance arrangements

The FRC operates a model of First Nations-led income management through the Cashless Debit Card in Aurukun, Coen, Doomadgee, Hope Vale and Mossman Gorge. The FRC is a partnership between the Queensland and Commonwealth Governments and the Cape York Institute, overseen by the Family Responsibilities Board.

Cross-border considerations

The Queensland Cross-Border Commissioner (the Commissioner), Ian Leavers, advocates for Queenslanders living in cross-border communities and addresses cross-border crime. The Commissioner has an active presence in the community of Goondiwindi, providing a centralised response location.

South Australia

Minister: The Hon Kyam Maher MLC, Minister for Aboriginal Affairs and Attorney-General

State of play

The SA First Nations Voice to Parliament has outlined its areas of focus for 2025 as health and wellbeing, housing and infrastructure, and justice and policing.

The SA Government has a formal Partnership Agreement on CtG with the SA Aboriginal Community Controlled Organisation Network. The SA CtG Implementation Plan 2024-26 focuses on long-term, structural reforms aimed at ensuring policies are community-driven, culturally appropriate and sustainable.

The NIAA works with the SA Attorney-General's Department as the lead SA First Nations affairs agency.

The NIAA's Focus

IAS investment in 2024-25 in SA will total $122 million. In 2025, the NIAA's priorities include:

- partnering with First Nations people and communities through existing and emerging Partnership Agreements, including the three SA EC regions (Far West EC, Tristate EC (NPY) and Ngarrindjeri Ruwe EC) to progress their identified strategic priorities
- focusing on place by fostering collaboration across governments through existing governance arrangements like the Port Augusta Partnership, of which the Commonwealth contributed $6 million in the 2025-26 Budget.

Key governance arrangements

In addition to the partnerships outlined above, the Port Augusta and Davenport Community Alliance (the Alliance) has been established to implement and monitor the Port Augusta Partnership. The Alliance representation includes youth, First Nations community members, business, community organisations and local, SA and Commonwealth Governments, including the NIAA.

Additionally, the NIAA provided funding and secretariat support to establish the Northern Aboriginal Leaders Alliance in 2024 to champion issues of regional importance in the Far North region of SA. The NALA includes representatives from the Anangu Pitjantjatjara Yankunytjatjara Lands, Port Augusta, Coober Pedy, Flinders Rangers and Whyalla.

Cross-border considerations

NPY Women's Council is the backbone organisation for the Tristate EC, across SA, WA and the NT. Work is underway to transition this backbone arrangement to the Kulintja Kutju Group.

Victoria

Minister: The Hon Natalie Hutchins MP, Minister for Treaty and First Peoples

State of play

The Victorian Government has committed to self-determination as the guiding principle in First Nations affairs, as set out in the Victorian Aboriginal Affairs Framework 2018-2023 (the Framework). The Framework has been extended until June 2025 to allow time for ongoing consultation on next steps.

Victoria's Place-Based Partnership and Community Data Project, based in Morwell, Gippsland, focusses on enhanced service system approaches to reducing the rate of First Nations children in out-of-home care.

The NIAA works closely with the Department of Premier and Cabinet, which is the lead First Nations affairs agency in Victoria.

The NIAA's focus

IAS investment in 2024-25 in Victoria will total $82.9 million. The NIAA's priorities include:

- existing and emerging Partnership Agreements, including the Kaiela Institute, the backbone organisation for Goulburn-Murray EC
- brokering relationships between First Nations organisations and Commonwealth, Victorian and local governments to influence policies and improve life outcomes for First Nations peoples, with a focus on cross-cutting areas such as disability, gender and sexuality and ageing populations
- driving economic development through expanding funding support to Kinaway, the Victorian Indigenous Chamber of Commerce, and other regional First Nations business hubs which support First Nations businesses, to leverage the Commonwealth Indigenous Procurement Policy by raising their visibility and capability to potential buyers.

Key governance arrangements

The Victorian CtG Partnership Forum oversees Victoria's CtG Implementation Plan and action on the National Agreement. The NIAA is an observer at the Forum.

Cross-border considerations

First Nations people living in Victoria's border communities, such as Albury-Wodonga and Mildura, have business and social networks that extend into NSW and SA. The Victorian Government's Cross-Border Commissioner, Brett Davis, works with his counterparts in NSW and SA to raise and resolve differences in practices, rules and opportunities for cross-border coordination.

Tasmania

Minister: The Hon Jacqui Petrusma MP, Minister for Aboriginal Affairs

State of play

A priority for the Tasmanian Government is the finalisation of its CtG Implementation Plan (due for publication June 2025) and seeks to include priorities from member organisations of the Tasmanian Regional Aboriginal Communities Alliance.

The Tasmanian Aboriginal Centre is a Coalition of Peaks (CoP) member and the Tasmanian Government's CtG implementation partner.

The NIAA works closely with the Department of Premier and Cabinet (DPAC) as the lead First Nations affairs agency in Tasmania.

The NIAA's focus

IAS investment in 2024-25 in Tasmania will total $21.4 million. The NIAA's priorities include:

- supporting the acceleration of the First Nations business sector through funding to the newly established First Nations-owned and -operated Palawa Business Hub
- working in-place with DPAC to consider sustainability and suitability of current infrastructure on Cape Barren Island, including for water and food security, housing and essential services infrastructure
- identifying opportunities to align the Tasmanian Youth Justice Blueprint 2022-2032 with the Commonwealth's commitments to restore law and order and build stronger and more sustainable communities.

Key governance arrangements

The Tasmanian Partners First Nation Strategy Forum, facilitated by the NIAA, brings key state and Commonwealth agencies together to drive CtG implementation and influence local policies and initiatives to progress the CtG Priority Reforms.

Cross-border considerations

N/A

Western Australia

Minister: The Hon Don Punch MLA, Minister for Aboriginal Affairs

State of play

The 2024 WA Budget included measures focused on CtG and promoting wellbeing and economic development for First Nations people.

The NIAA works closely with the Department of Premier and Cabinet as the lead First Nations affairs agency in WA.

The NIAA's focus

IAS investment in 2024-25 in WA will total $309.3 million. In 2025, the NIAA's priorities include:

- existing and emerging Partnership Agreements, such as the East Kimberley, West Kimberley and NPY Tristate ECs, to work with government and corporate Australia to inform how First Nations policies and programs are designed and delivered
- working in partnership with the Commonwealth Attorney-General's Department on supporting the Olabud Doogethu - Smart Justice in the Heart of Kimberly justice reinvestment project in Halls Creek, Mulan, Kundat Djaru and Mindibungu, funded via the National Justice Reinvestment Program
- signing and implementing the East Kimberley Place Based Partnership Agreement, which focusses on early years policy.

Key governance arrangements

The NIAA has relationships with key stakeholders including the WA Government Partnership Planning Groups and CtG Deputies Group, to provide oversight and coordination of whole-of-government CtG activity.

The NIAA works with the Aboriginal Health Council of WA, the peak body representing WA in CoP. The NIAA also work with the Council of Aboriginal Services WA, representing the Aboriginal community-controlled sector in WA.

Cross-border considerations

NPY Women's Council is the backbone organisation for the Tristate EC across SA, WA and the NT. Work is underway to transition this backbone arrangement to the Kulintja Kutju Group.

Election commitments

This section highlights commitments for which you are responsible, as well as commitments your Ministerial colleagues will lead that could have significant benefit for First Nations people. The official list of election commitments is being finalised between the Prime Minister's Office and the Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet.

Commitments within your portfolio

The table below provides detail on commitments you will lead as Minister for Indigenous Australians. The NIAA will make sure you and your Office have clear oversight of delivery of these commitments.

Commitment title	Description	Cost
$77.4 million for Climate Resilience in the Torres Strait	The Government will fund climate resilience in the Torres Strait through the construction of sea walls and critical infrastructure. The project will focus on engineering and construction efforts on five islands: Poruma, Iama, Masig, Warraber, and Badu. It would be administered by the Torres Strait Regional Authority in partnership with Torres Strait local governments and the Torres Strait Island Regional Council. It is subject to the Queensland government agreeing to jointly invest.	$77.4 million
Funding to expand the Goanna Academy	The Government will fund an expansion of Goanna Academy's preventative mental health education programs for at-risk people, as well as the piloting of a new mental health training program.	$6.4 million

Other Ministers' commitments

The following table lists commitments we understand may not be within your remit, but which could significantly benefit First Nations people. The NIAA will work with responsible departments to influence the implementation of these commitments to maximise benefits for First Nations communities. We will keep you updated on the progress of their delivery as appropriate.
